BACK FROM ILLINOIS

V. E. PHILP FOUND THE MIDDLE WEST FULL OF THE HUM OF BUSY LIFE

After a considerable stay in the Middle West, Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Philp, of 225 Orange street, have returned to Glendale in a mood appreciative of the many climatic and other advantages of this charming city. "We had a very pleasant journey to Chicago," said Mrs. Philp. "On the way we met many agreeable people and saw many interesting sights. Chicago itself is greatly changed since the days when we knew it first. There are many skyscrapers; but the smoke and the dust and the heat in summer and the cutting cold in winter have not changed one whit.

"However, I was more interested in the park system and the lawns and greenhouses. We visited Lincoln park, Garfield park, Douglas park and Washington park. They are all beautiful. What struck me, however, was the pride that the gardener took in some fuchsia plants in the hothouse. They were puny affairs compared to those we have growing at our door. California can produce fuchsias that far excel anything in Chicago in size of blossom and richness of color. The municipal bathhouses on Michigan boulevard struck us as very handsome structures. They appeared to be well patronized.

"We went to Algonquin, our former residence, and found it changed a good deal. There were developments everywhere. That is a beautiful country, watered by the Fox river, and thickly adorned with red oaks and other trees. At Algonquin we had a family gathering and many of our circle met for the first time and some possibly for the last. We had a pleasant time visiting in Elgin, which is ten miles from Algonquin.

"Elgin is a busy town. We were astonished at the advance it had made. Everywhere around this center the heavy rains of recent days had soaked the soil and the whole country was one carpet of verdure. The only thing that struck us as strange was the absence of flowers. The country in that respect seemed barren compared to California.

"Elgin was full of business. The famous Elgin watch factory that during the winter had been running only four days out of six was in full operation. Other factories that showed great activity were the Borden Milk company, the Elgin Shirt factory and the famous Elgin Casket factory, some of the work of which latter house is sent to California and other States.

"In addition to these we noticed the Silver Plate company, the Watch Case company, the Elgin Tool works and others. There appeared to be a great press of business. During the time we were in Elgin the Elgin militia was mustered in and dispatched to the border amid scenes of great enthusiasm.

"We visited what is known as Moose Head, the national institution for the orphans of the Loyal Order of Moose. We also visited the Elgin State Hospital for the insane and admired its immense proportions and the extent of its buildings. If we can get away in time we will take a trip to Seattle and thence to Alaska as far north as the White Pass railway and perhaps farther. Mr. Philp has been there before and has always wished to revisit the marvelous scenery of the northern territory.

"However, wherever we go or how beautiful soever may be the scenery we always come back to our Glendale home content to remain here. There is nothing more beautiful than the natural surroundings of Glendale and one only needs to go away for a while to come back to them in an appreciative mood."

EASTERN STAR PARTY

Thursday evening, July 13, the regular meeting of Glen Eyrie Chapter, Order of Eastern Star, was held at Masonic Temple. After the business of the evening, a card party was enjoyed, the entertainment for the evening being in charge of Mrs. S. A. Pollock assisted by Miss Della M. Echols and Mrs. W. S. Noyes. Refreshments were served and prizes won by Mrs. C. M. Good and Mr. Edward Carvel.

The next regular meeting of the chapter will be held August 10, and a White Elephant Party, in charge of Mrs. A. W. Tower assisted by Miss Carrie Cornwell, Miss Margaret Nichols, Miss Ruth Williams and Miss Olive Williams, promises much amusement. This party is for all O. E. S. members and their escorts and all visiting members in the valley are invited.

LIBRARY STORY HOUR

MRS. DANFORD GIVES NINETY CHILDREN LESSONS IN PATRIOTISM

Ninety children were lined up outside the Glendale library before 9 o'clock, Wednesday morning, waiting for the doors to open and the Story Hour to begin. This was the second of the Wednesday morning story hours for this season and it looks as though the attendance would exceed that of last year.

Mrs. Danford, the librarian, had arranged a patriotic program which proved of great interest. She first read a story of a little drummer boy, who entered the service in the Civil war. The interesting story held the children spellbound as the dramatic tale of the battles through which the little fellow passed and beat the "charge" so often was unfolded. The spirit that animated the little drummer was the spirit that saved the Union.

Attention was then drawn to very different scenes in a little story of domestic life entitled "Mother." This pictured the home and home influences showing the evil results of disobedience and pointing the lesson that the love of one's mother is the very same spirit that develops love of one's country.

At the close of the reading each child was presented with a small American flag and instructed to keep it safely and to present it at the patriotic hour next year.

Mrs. Danford then gave a specially instructive lesson in the use of the catalogues and indicated to the children several courses of reading and some special books that every child should read. The children were profoundly attentive to the instruction and it is expected that there will soon be a marked increase in the number of children who will use the catalogues for themselves.

ATTEND SAN DIEGO WEDDING

Mr. C. M. Retts, one of our local contractors, and family, Mrs. Retts, Miss Ellen and "Billie," motored to San Diego recently, where they attended the wedding of Mr. Retts' cousin. Mrs. Retts, whom many Glendale and Tropico people remember as Miss Marple and who was contralto soloist at the First M. E. church, Los Angeles, for a number of years previous to her marriage to Mr. Retts, sang two appropriate solos in her own pleasing way and Miss Ellen carried the marriage ring in a basket of flowers; she was dressed in flimsy white and wore a wreath of white sweet peas.

While there they all enjoyed the exposition and visited some old Los Angeles friends now residing in San Diego.

The trip was made in Mr. Retts' Maxwell roadster, the time being five hours each way, and was without accident except on the way home one front tire picked up a nice, large nail—which puncture was fixed in a short time by Mr. Retts.

KALEM FILM COMPANY

In order to give life and reality to the pictures in "The Girl From 'Frisco", the Kalem company searches out the most interesting points in California and makes the setting of its pictures there. In the production of the latest picture in this series, "The Gold Plunderers," the Kalem company was taken to Randsburg, the famous old mining town on the Mojave desert. It would be difficult to imagine a more picturesque spot. The Yellow Aster mine is located at the summit of the highest peak in the district, about 4000 feet above the level of the sea. The workings of the mine wind in and out throughout the mountain. There are miles of these tunnels and a railroad runs through the underground workings. All round the district are other famous mines, such as the Butte, and the King Solomon. These mines afford many striking backgrounds for such pictures as "The Gold Plunderers." The last touches are being placed on this great California picture at the Kalem studio.

BEGIN THEIR CAMPAIGN

It has been decided by the Young Republicans of this district to start the campaign for the election of Hughes and Fairbanks immediately. Much enthusiasm prevails over conditions throughout Southern California, where the organization is confident of success. The first event in the campaign season will be a campaign ball to be held at Blanchard hall, Los Angeles, July 21. This affair will be held under the auspices of the Young Republican club of Los Angeles. P. A. Stanton, former Republican National committeeman for California, will be the guest of honor.

FIND BODY OF BOY KILLED BY SHARK

TERRIBLY MANGLED REMAINS OF LESTER STILLWELL FOUND IN MATTAWAN CREEK

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

MATTAWAN, N. J., July 14.—The terribly mangled body of Lester Stillwell, the 12-year-old boy, who was seized by the man-eating shark in Mattawan creek, was recovered today. The shark had torn the body into shreds. There were great jagged holes in the abdomen where the shark had torn pieces from the body. The breast had been mang'ed in similar fashion and the marks of the shark's teeth were all over the body. Mattawan creek is sixteen miles from the open sea. Panic prevails at all the beaches.

BRITISH BREAK THROUGH GERMAN FRONT

GENERAL HAIG'S MEN CAPTURE FOUR MILES OF TRENCHES AND PENETRATE ONE MILE INTO POSITION

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

LONDON, July 14.—Smashing forward at early dawn the British force under Gen. Haig broke the German front and swept forward along a distance of four miles. The British momentum carried them forward into the villages of Longueval, and Bazantin and cleared out the Trones woods. This movement represents a gain of one miles in depth and is in an excellent position for the attack on the Bapaume plateau. There are no more frontal attacks and the flanking of the Germans by the British has given them an east and west line.

CARRANZA PROPOSES PEACE CONFERENCE

DE FACTO RULER OF MEXICO SUGGESTS JOINT COMMISSION TO SETTLE DIFFICULTIES

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, July 14.—Gen. Carranza, de facto president of Mexico, made a proposal today to the State department that the United States should choose three men and Mexico three men, who should constitute a board of consultation to consider the difficulties now existing between this country and Mexico. It is thought likely here that President Wilson will approve this proposal as one likely to settle the trouble.

IRISH RIOT IN THE STREETS OF CORK

HUNDREDS PARADE THE TOWN, SMASH WINDOWS AND SHOUT FOR THE REPUBLIC

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

CORK, Ireland, July 14.—Several hundred rioters paraded the streets of Cork this morning. They hissed the soldiers, smashed windows in the recruiting stations and inscribed on the factory gates, "Up With The Republic."

VILLA DEMANDS SURRENDER OF CHIHUAHUA

REPORTS FROM MEXICO INDICATE THAT CARRANZA IS LOSING HOLD ON THE COUNTRY

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

EL PASO, July 14.—It is reported here on good unofficial authority that Villa has appeared in the vicinity of Chihuahua and demanded the surrender of that city. There is every indication that Carranza is losing his hold on the country. The reappearance of Villa has considerably altered the aspect of affairs. Villa is a popular hero on account of his treatment of the United States and is assured of valuable assistance from all over the country.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

SERVICE DEPT. REPORTS CONNECTION WITH KELLEY WATER SYSTEM

The board of trustees met in regular session at the city hall at 7:30 p. m., July 13, 1916. All members present at roll call.

The minutes of the last regular meeting were read and approved.

The committee appointed by the board to confer with a like committee from Tropico in regard to matters connected with consolidation of the two cities, made a report, submitting a copy of questions submitted by the Tropico committee, together with answers made to the same. On motion the report was ordered to be filed and the committee discharged.

An application was read from Claude A. Kingsbury for permit to operate a motor bus, and the same being approved by the city manager, was, on motion of Trustee Jackson, ordered to be granted.

Representatives of the Los Angeles Examiner were present and repeated their application for an appropriation by the board for the purpose of advertising in a forthcoming special edition of that paper. The members of the board individually expressed themselves as being opposed to the appropriation of any money for advertising purposes at the present time, and no formal action was taken.

A communication was read from the city engineer in regard to the protests against the opening and widening of Sycamore canyon road, stating that the property upon all public streets in the district is 158, 772.52 feet; that all protests whether drawn up in regular form or not represent 2,105.88 feet, and as the protests stand at present, they represent 1 1-3 per cent of the total frontage in this district. On motion of Trustee Grist, the time of hearing in this matter was fixed at 8:00 p. m. July 27th next, and the clerk instructed to give notice of the same.

The engineer further stated that one informal protest had been filed in opposition to the opening and widening of Eighth street, and upon motion, it was ordered that the time of hearing of protests against the opening and widening of Eighth street be set for 8:00 p. m., July 27th next, and the clerk ordered to give notice to that effect.

The city manager reported that Mr. Johnson of the Pacific Electric Railway company had been out looking over the situation on Brand boulevard, but had expressed no opinion in regard to the matter, and that he, the city manager, had deferred writing to Mr. Shoup until the results of the engineer's visit might be ascertained.

The city manager presented a deed signed by L. C. Brand and Mary Louise Brand and the Huntington Land Improvement company, conveying to the City of Glendale certain properties in the bed of Verdugo wash and adjacent thereto; the same being required for the straightening of the channel of the wash from a point east of Brand boulevard westerly. On motion of Trustee Muhleman, the deed from Mr. Brand was ordered to be accepted and letter of thanks to be sent to him for his action in the matter.

On motion of Trustee Grist, the city manager and chairman of the public works committee were instructed to confer with county officials in regard to the bridge on Brand boulevard over Verdugo wash.

A deed was presented from J. N. and Ella C. Witham, conveying to the City of Glendale Lot "A" of the Witham Tract for road purposes. The same being accompanied by a certificate of title, was, on motion of Trustee Grist, ordered to be accepted.

The manager of the public service department reported having made connection of the municipal water system with the Kelley System in Casa Verdugo, subject to the approval of the Railroad Commission, the decision of which in the matter had not yet been ascertained.

On motion, Ordinance Number 296, "An Ordinarce regulating the presenting, auditing and paying of demands against the City of Glendale and repealing Ordinance Number 293 of said city," was ordered to be taken up for third and final reading, and upon being read was on motion of Trustee Muhleman adopted by unanimous vote.

LOCAL ARTIST HONORED

E. H. WESTON TO DEMONSTRATE BEFORE ASSOCIATION OF PHOTOGRAPHERS

In the Association News for April, a journal devoted to the interests of the photographers of America, the official publication of the Photographers' Association of America, the following appreciative article concerning Edward Henry Weston is published:

"A few years ago there appeared on the western horizon a star of unusual magnitude. Contrary to the opinion of many that star has ever increased in brightness and constancy till it has become recognized as a fixed and certain guiding light.

"Edward Henry Weston, of Tropico, Cal., represents the most advanced thought in pictorial photography. His work has twice won salon honors at National conventions while European photographic societies have not been slow to recognize his unusual artistic ability and his fearlessness in striking into new fields.

"Mr. Weston will demonstrate before the Convention of the Photographers' Association of America, at Cleveland, Ohio, on Tuesday, July 25, and Wednesday, July 26. Thus will the photographers of the Middle West and the East be given the unusual opportunity not only of seeing Mr. Weston at work under the light, but also of coming into close personal touch with him and thereby gaining inspirations that will be of inestimable benefit to them throughout the rest of their photographic careers."

FOUR GENERATIONS AT FONT

Much interest was taken in the baptismal ceremony which took place at St. Luke's Episcopal church, Los Angeles, Sunday, when the Rev. George Eley of 1210 Lomita, Glendale, preached and administered the sacrament of baptism to his great-grandchild, Julia Frances Eley. It is not often that four generations of a family assemble at the font as was the case on Sunday. The Rev. George and Mrs. Eley, their son Fire Chief Eley of Los Angeles, his son Clarence Eley and Mrs. Eley, the father and mother of the baby, made an unusual picture as the baptismal rite of the Episcopal church was read by the child's great-grandfather.

INSTRUCTION IN FENCING

Miss Alice Frank, business manager of the Glendale branch of the Egan school, says that fencing is to be taught in that establishment along with the other branches. It seems that fencing for girls and young ladies is the latest fashionable accomplishment. No girl's education is complete without a course with the foils. There is no doubt that the handling of the foils gives grace, symmetry and poise to the body. Adepts in fencing usually have graceful figures and move with the ease and dignity that come from careful physical training.

CARNEY SHOE STORE MOVES

Dave Carney, who has conducted Carney's Shoe Store near the corner of Broadway and Glendale avenue for over seven years, has leased the store room at 1106 W. Broadway, formerly occupied by Lynn-Cooper, and will move into the new location on or about August 1. The room is being completely remodeled and will include a central entrance, new show windows with a seven-foot depth, new hardwood floors and decorating and everything necessary in the way of an up-to-date retail store room.

GETS YEAR IN PENITENTIARY

Roy Jacobus, who worked in Glendale at intervals, and lounged a great deal about the streets, was recently arrested on a charge of sending obscene letters through the mails to school girls. His case came up for trial before Federal Judge Oscar Trippet, Thursday, in Los Angeles. Jacobus was sentenced to a year and a day in the penitentiary at McNeill's island. Jacobus pleaded guilty.

GLENDALE, CALIFORNIA, FRIDAY, JULY 14, 1916

SUNSPOTS AND WEATHER

One hundred years ago, in 1816, the United States was visited with a winter of unusual severity. At that time there were killing frosts every month and corn for seed sold at $7 a bushel. According to the advance rates, the depreciation in the purchasing power and other causes that sum would represent about $28 a bushel now.

In 1816 the scientists did not know much about sun spots. They had other theories about the weather which were just as satisfactory as those that refer the cold of the year to the outbreak of a few more spots on the sun's surface. They knew nothing about the modern electric theory of the sun's heat and attributed the diminution in the heat of the earth's atmosphere to the gradual cooling of the surface of this world, and speculated on the time when the earth would whirl about the sun a dead, cold mass of uninhabited matter.

In 1916 the scientists have in some measure come to appreciate the fact that the energy of the sun is probably electric seeing that the higher up one ascends the colder it gets and that the sun's energy has to impinge on the dense atmosphere of the earth which lies close to the surface before it turns into heat. In fact it is now believed by advanced scientists that the earth's atmosphere is a kind of resistance coil and that the electrical energy of the sun meeting with it is immediately turned into heat.

Now they connect the cold weather on the earth with the multiplicity of the spots on the sun. The electric energy of the sun can be seen flaming out from the surface through those enormous rents in the photosphere. They shoot out 180,000 miles from the surface. Whether, however, they have any connection with the cold weather or the hot wave is not easy to determine. In science as well as in philosophy the maxim "post hoc ergo propter hoc," which means that because one thing happens immediately after some other that other is the cause of the first is untrue.

It is probable that the sunspots do not directly control the weather, but as their influence is electric and magnetic this influence combined with other local factors probably has considerable effect on the weather.

None of the sunspots is visible to the naked eye; yet they can be photographed. One of the bigger ones has a diameter of about 1000 miles and if laid down on the surface of the earth would cover the whole eastern and central portions of the United States.

There is no real authority for the statement that the spots are gaseous any more than for the statement that their energy is electric and that the flames seen are electric flames. This summer twenty-five such spots can be seen and their appearance is extremely interesting. One thing is evident—man knows as yet very little about the great secrets of the universe. If he would stop fighting his neighbor and would devote his energy to natural research he might discover what would vastly increase his happiness.

PROBABLE DURATION OF THE WAR

Those who have been within the circle of hostilities in Europe recently do not seem to have derived much comfort from the situation. The original prediction of Lord Kitchener that the war would last three years is fast being fulfilled. The further period of probable war prophesied by that soldier may be needed before the nations reach a decision of some kind or other. Still there are elements in the world that may bring about a decision sooner than either side may expect.

There were times in the history of Napoleon when he seemed unconquerable. He certainly laid Europe at his feet in a manner that no modern army has been able to do, out of those armies that have sought such an end. Indeed the modern would-be conquerors of the world have found the task of conquest a very much more difficult affair than they imagined. It is all very well for a conqueror or would-be conqueror to lay down plans and to say "Thus and thus I shall do. On the second of May I shall be in such and such a city," and so on, but the element of the unseen and unforeseen that govern the world and interfere with the plans of would-be conquerors continually thwarts the best laid plans of campaign.

It is all very well to say, "In ten days my armies shall be in Verdun; but it is difficult to explain the shortsightedness that speaks thus and at the end of 150 days finds itself as far from its goal as at the moment when the date of entrance was set. Even the most stupid heads in the world begin after a while to suspect the wisdom of the brain that is constantly blurting out "In so many days I will be here or there" and finds itself a false prophet.

The world of Europe can well afford to wait for the decision of the war at the hands of a higher power than man. In the end truth and righteousness have always proved stronger than the earthly powers like Nebuchadnezzar who looked out over the towers, the walls, and the palaces of Babylon and exclaimed, "If not this great Babylon which I have built?" only to find himself eating grass among the beasts of the field while his great heritage passed over into the hands of another.

In the case of nations as in the case of individuals the nation which makes truth its ideal and its guide may suffer tribulation and trial and may have to descend into the awful arena of war and carnage but from the Campo Santo of the stricken fields of Europe that nation will once more behold God ascending in the visions of peace.

The almighty power that made all nations to raise them up or cast them down has given unto each its alloted duty and where nations fail in that duty their end is not far off. So it may be that even at the moment when peace seems dim and faint and far away suddenly may the Almighty intervene, suffer his angel to turn aside his avenging arm and even in the weeping nations of the Old World may find an occasion to glorify his goodness. So in a regenerated Europe higher ideals are likely to appear and a better world is likely to arise in place of the wornout systems that have been masquerading before the world as the greatest good of the greatest number.

It is quite possible that at any moment some event may occur to end the war and it is equally possible that it may drive on until some power gives way through exhaustion. Some of them are not very far off from that point even now.

THREE-MILE CONCRETE VIADUCT NOW BRIDGES THE SACRAMENTO VALLEY

The completion of the Yolo Basin Trestle by the State Highway Commission was the occasion of a celebration May 11 to 14, 1916, in which practically the entire Sacramento valley participated in the formal opening and dedication of this, the longest concrete trestle in the world.

For forty years the people of Sacramento valley had been dreaming of the day when the basin would be permanently bridged, and at last the dream has come true.

The so-called Yolo Basin is flooded annually for six or eight months, and is a part of the great marshy district extending from a point some fifteen miles north of Marysville to Rio Vista, a distance of more than 120 miles. The flooded territory is as wide as three miles in places.

South of the bridge at Meridian, which lies due west of Marysville, there has been no way of crossing the overflowed area in vehicles during the flood periods; and the east and west sides of the great Sacramento valley have had no means of intercommunication by highway at such times.

For a few months during summer and fall, when the flood waters from the Sacramento have subsided and the marsh lands have dried out somewhat, a precariously passable road, known as the "Tule Jake" road, was the only means of crossing the basin.

It is unnecessary to say that "Tule Jake's" road was usually a concatenation of ruts and chuckholes.

Thus the reader from a distance may readily understand how the social and commercial interests of the Capital city have been hemmed in and how the farmer on the other side has been denied access to the market center of California by this great Yolo Basin; and he no longer wonders that the building of a solid concrete trestle with asphaltic pavement across this marsh was the occasion of an event comparable in spirit and enthusiasm with the celebration of the opening of the Panama Canal by the nation last year. For in truth, in a local way, the Yolo Basin Causeway is even of larger significance to Sacramento valley and Central California than the Canal is to the country at large, slides or no slides.

The building of this trestle of concrete was in pursuance of the policy of the California Highway Commission to construct the state highway system in a durable manner, and choose routes that would most directly and strategically connect the centers of population, regardless of engineering difficulties and false theories of economy; in first cost.

The design of this trestle was worked out by the engineering forces in the Commission's office in Sacramento.

The westerly 2,000 feet of the trestle is of timber construction for the reason that some day a levee to define the westerly margin of the Yolo By-pass is to be built. Thereafter an earth fill may be substituted for the wooden trestle.

Including this wooden portion, the entire trestle is over three miles in length, and is reported as stated to be the longest trestle in the world. Its average height is 20 feet and it provides a clear driveway of 21 feet in width.

The contract for the work was let July 31, 1914. Driving the wooden piles on the west end began November 1st of that year, and the first concrete pile was driven on January 3, 1915, and the last on October 1, 1915.

On Saturday, March 18, 1916, the general public was given the first and long looked for opportunity to use the trestle; and on the following day over 2,000 automobiles, conveying 8,000 people, traveled over it.

Nearly 1,100 carloads of material were used in the construction of this great bridge, including 21,692 tons of crushed stone, 12,553 tons of sand, 32,00 barrels of cement and 2,200 tons of reinforcing steel. These materials, which cost $148,000, were supplied by the Commission under its special half-rate freight schedule agreement with the railroad company.

The contractors, the Graff Construction company of Seattle, received $246,000 under their contract. The total cost of the trestle was therefore a little under $400,000.

The precision of the lines and grades of the trestle have been favorably commented upon by many who have closely examined the work. As the piles and the guardrail stretch away out of sight across the watery wastes, one marvels at the skill displayed in driving the great concrete piles with such unvarying accuracy and at the assembling of all the bulky parts into a complete whole so that its lines and grades are as true as if the structure had been cast as a monolith.

This trestle, together with the connecting roadways, reduces the distance from Sacramento to San Francisco by automobile to 98 miles, a saving of 30 miles via Stockton and Altamont.

A UNIQUE CHURCH

The Seaman's Church Institute in New York City has made a remarkable record of late. Within a year it held 453 religious services, conducted a savings bank that received $240,000 in deposits, a hotel that provided lodgings for nearly 270,000 men, a restaurant that served 650 meals a day, an employment bureau that found work for 6,680 men.

Such practical work seems to have been appreciated by thoughtful people, as is evidenced by the success of the campaign carried through in the trying financial period of 1915, when more than $150,000 was raised to clear away the last indebtedness against the great new building which, with its equipment, has cost $1,150,000.

BE RIGHT OURSELVES

Our own way of being wrong is all right in our own eyes; our neighbor's way of being wrong is offensive to all that is good in us; we are anxious, kindly anxious, to pull the mote out of his eye, never thinking of the big beam in the way of the operation. . . . Our immediate business is to be right ourselves. Until we are, even our righteous indignation is wasted.—George Macdonald.

BLOSSOMS AT LAST

It grows in a back yard, the pear tree that blossomed and bore fruit at last. The plot is tiny that holds the solitary tree. Neighbor to it, spacious and terraced grounds look down on the scrap of yard and overshadow it with a fringe of trees, and also with the stout oaken fence that fortifies these uplands, too high to stand in their own strength without a bulwark.

The pear tree grew apace, but for years not a blossom brightened it with even a passing promise of fruit. "Cut off the top," said one adviser. It was done, but to no purpose. "It should have a touch of iron somewhere near it," counseled another, and forthwith it was looped about with an iron chain that gave it a heathenish aspect. Neither lopping nor looping, nor any outside thing availed. The tree bore "nothing but leaves." Yet, it grew and grew.

By and by, behold! Just by growing and growing it reached the upper spaces of unhindered sunlight, above the overshadowing. And then? Why then, as far down as the sunshine reached, the branches shot forth blossoms, and in due time came the harvest of fruit, tempting the palate, and finding its way to the preserve closet along the natural, housewifely track.

But until it reached the clear shining of the sun, its chief mission was unfulfilled. It was not by "the work of one day or two," but by a steadfast, upward climb, that the sunlit space was attained, that great essential without which there can be no fruitage or ripening.

Perhaps a soul in the shade might far more quickly compass the distance, and find the sunshine outpoured from the infinite Source. A steadfast looking toward the light will find it through thickest shadows.

It is something, to know what we need,
It is better to seek it with speed,
It is best, to go on, day and night,
Until we come into the light.
—Julia H. Johnston in the Continent.

The New York Municipal Railway corporation has adopted a new variety of safety couplers. In the past the only automatic feature has been the car-coupler itself, and after that is operated, in the process of coupling, a man must go between the cars and couple the air-brake hose, electric control wires, and heat and light connections.

The new couplers perform these operations automatically, and in addition cause the lights on the front and rear of the train to show their proper colors, as well as cutting them out between the cars of the train without any attention from a trainman. The new system eliminates a serious danger to the men required to make up trains.

COSTLY INACCURACY

It is said that the omission of a comma in a piece of tariff legislation enacted by Congress, has more than once cost this Government tens of thousands of dollars, and this only illustrates what life is continually proving, that a lack of exactness in small things is a costly matter. A young man was repeating to a circle of friends a conversation he had had with a prominent clergyman of the town. In the background stood an elderly man who had been present at the interview in question, and whose brows as he listened, drew together in a frown. His memory was an unusually accurate one, and the report the youth was giving of his talk, was not what he remembered. A word changed here, and another there, an inflection altered, gave the clergyman's words an entirely different meaning from what they had conveyed to him. A month or two later, the young man who had repeated the conversation, approached this silent listener with a business proposition, and he was met with a flat refusal. "I didn't want anything to do with him," the capitalist said, explaining his refusal to a friend. "He's not reliable."

LITTLELANDS

Town Meeting

A great deal of interest was shown in the children's exhibit of vegetables last Tuesday evening at the town meeting. There were four groups exhibited. The first prize was won by Olive Wilson, 30 cents; the second by Alec Wilson, 25 cents; the third was given to Viola Clark, 20c, and to show appreciation and to encourage the fourth exhibitor 15c was given to Pearl Clark. The Clark children have sold at least $2.75 worth of vegetables from their gardens which isn't a bad showing for children. Mrs. Hoffman, to express her appreciation of the efforts of the children and to encourage future effort, baked a fine, large cake and divided it equally among the contestants.

It was announced for the benefit of the people that Capt. Hatch has a plentiful supply of blackberries; Richard Frost is taking orders for any amount required. Two weeks from last Tuesday night it is desired to have another State program.

An article on the "Influence of the Moon Upon Vegetation," sent by George H. Maxwell to Mr. Hough was read by Mrs. Kearney. This elicited considerable discussion pro and con and we presume most of the audience believe just as they did before on this subject.

Friday Morning Round Table

Those interested in the Friday morning round table discussions had the pleasure of meeting with Mrs. Whitman of Pine street last Friday. Another chapter of "The Coming People" was read and thoroughly discussed. These meetings grow more interesting all the while. At the luncheon hour, to which each lady brings her own lunch, the hostess assisted by her niece, Miss Fern Whitman, served tea, coffee and lemonade. This morning the Round Table meets at the home of Mrs. Linaberry of Monte Vista boulevard.

Stephen C. Packer

Stephen C. Packer, candidate for supervisor, will hold forth at Bolton Hall, Littlelands, Friday evening, July 14, 7:30 p. m. Other speakers of the occasion are Hon. W. E. Evans, Mr. A. T. Cowan and Dr. Jessie A. Russell of Glendale. Mrs. G. C. Cable, Mrs. Wayland Brown and Mrs. William Herman West will be heard in recitation and songs of a delightful character. A full house is predicted. Come early if you wish a seat.

Mrs. George C. Buck arrived home last Saturday from the hospital. Considering her condition she withstood the trip very well and is very happy to be at home once more. Mrs. Buck is an optimist and notwithstanding the fact that she may have a long siege before her she is confident that she will eventually be well.

Regarding Town Name

Editor Tri-City Progress:

The name "Tujunga," suggested at a recent town meeting for this community now known as Littlelands, is receiving much commendation, particularly on the part of those acquainted with the early history of this valley.

The original name of all this valley, including also Hansen Heights and the section since known as Tujunga Terrace, was Rancho Tujunga. With the Mission lands of the San Fernando valley adjoining it on the west, the Verdugo grant on the South, the Rancho La Crescenta Canada on the east and the Sierra Madre mountains on the north, Ranch Tujunga, lying along the Big Tujunga River and stretching eastward to "the divide," was even more beautiful than it is today, since it was dotted over with great live oaks such as are now confined to the small area of the park at Sunland.

Old settlers tell us that Haines Canyon at that time had many gigantic pines, and all the hills and mountains supported a dense growth, making a far more beautiful place than we have today. The fact that our once green and well-watered mountain slopes were covered with a dense and luxuriant and beautiful vegetation, while today they are for the most part bare and comparatively uninviting, is undoubtedly owing to our proverbial negligence and wastefulness of our resources. Had we been even half awake, as we are today, some restrictions would have been placed on the wholesale and wanton destruction of one of Mother Nature's grandest gifts to man. "The tree is the mother of the fountain." Our well-beloved valley, our glorious California, in fact our great Nation will never reach their highest and best development until we as a people learn this simple truth.

Among the settlers who first came into this valley was Asa Rowley, a sturdy old pioneer, who with his two sons, Dr. Rowley, now of Los Angeles, and L. T. Rowley of Sunland, and his daughter, Mary G. Rowley (now Mrs. Allgire) "took up" or "homesteaded" all the land along the Sierra Madre mountains on the north side of the valley, from the Tujunga to Haines canyon. Part of the town now called "Littlelands" extends on to this tract taken up at that time by the Rowley family, and my own homestead (immediately adjoining the town on the north) is a portion of the same. Hence I have christened my homestead, or rather preserved the name, which best describes it, "Old Tujunga Homestead."

PAUL S. HEFFLEMAN.

Episcopal services will be held Sunday, July 16, at 11 a. m., at the Morgan ranch, by Rev. R. Renison.

DOUBLE CELEBRATION

A double celebration was celebrated Sunday, July 9th, 1916, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Hingston, of Oakdale. It being the day of their little daughter's christening, Marguerite Sois, and the birthday of Mrs. Hingston. After the christening, which took place in the Holy Family church of Glendale, by Father O'Neill, refreshments were served and a good time was enjoyed by all who attended. Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Joffcoat of Monrovia, Mr. and Mrs. Hauber, Mr. and Mrs. Dodds, Mrs. Clark, Miss Edna Wellborn, Miss Elaine Atkinson, Miss Jones, Mrs. E. Wallis, Miss Marguerite Hauber, the baby's godmother, and Mr. Lew Austin Wallis, the godfather, Mr. and Mrs. Hingston.

STATE OF CALIFORNIA, County of Los Angeles, City of Glendale. } ss.

I, J. C. Sherer, City Clerk of the City of Glendale, do hereby certify that the foregoing ordinance was duly adopted by the Board of Trustees of the City of Glendale, State of California, and signed by the President of said Board at a regular meeting thereof, held on the 13th day of July, 1916, and was adopted by the following vote:

TOMATO JUICE FOR INK SPOTS

Tomato juice is said to be successful in many cases in removing ink stains from white articles, such as handkerchiefs, white summer dresses, muslin frills, and so on. It must be done, however, as soon as possible after the spot has been acquired. A clean piece of blotting paper should be laid under the stain, and a slice of raw, ripe tomato rubbed over the surface, fresh pieces of blotting paper being substituted until the ink spot has vanished.

USE OF FARM TRACTORS

A specialist in scientific farming has figured that more than one-fifth of the cultivated land of the country is required to feed the horses on the farms. The animals work on the average only three hours a day. He argues that farm tractors are much more economical.

It costs $250 a year to feed a team of horses, while a tractor costs little for fuel and upkeep. A method has been devised by which the machine may be guided by a line from the steering device to a small drum on a pole planted at the center of the field. As the tractor moves around the circumference of the circle, the line wraps about the drum, and each revolution brings it a little nearer to the center; and it thus works the field in concentric circles by itself.
